Dear John and Antonietta:

When Jeremy Tarcher introduced us at the Liddy/Leary debate, your first words to me, John, were, "Where's Ayn Rand?" Of course, Ayn Rand is dead. But I thought the enclosed paper might be of interest to you, and perhaps to both of you.

Having followed your work for many years with great interest and excitement, I would very much welcome the opportunity to meet with you and learn more of your current explorations. Tim Leary was kind enough to say he would help at facilitating this.

Naturally I am interested in your reactions to the enclosed paper if you care to share them.

Cordially,

Nathaniel Branden, Ph.D.

Dear Tim:

If you decide to do in your film the section of my question, and do decide to correct the mispronunciation of my name - Branden, not Brandyn - I wonder if it is too complicated to correct, also, your identification of me. My chief area of specialization, and what I am most known for, is not romantic love, important though that area is, but self-esteem.

Once again, let me say what a marvelous evening we all thought it was and how much we all look forward to seeing you again.

Best,

Nathaniel Branden

Dear Bryan:

I assume by now you have received the second set of materials I sent you (with your name and the address on the envelope marked in red). I don't know whether or not Tim has spoken to you about me, as he suggested he would.

Anyway, I would welcome the opportunity to talk with you further and to explore the possibility of your representing me on the lecture circuit, if you are interested.

If I don't hear from you first, I will telephone you.

Nathaniel Branden Ph.D.
